1. The Managua Station has no traces on Subject.
2. There are numerous traces on J. Irving DAVIDSON. One card shows that he announced the new location of his offices at 1612 K. Street, N.W., Washington, DC on 1 April 1959. Among those he represented at that time were the Nicaraguan Government and Israeli Military Industries. Another undated card shows him as a registered representative of the Nicaraguan Government at Suite 1224, Wyatt Building, Washington, D. C. There is one reference to his buying rifles from the Dominican Republic for sale to Indonesia, with the approval of the Nicaraguan president.
3. Station contact ERWIG-1 knows Davidson well and classifies him as an unprincipled opportunist. At one time when Nicaragua was arranging to purchase a quantity of Staghound armored cars from Israel, Davidson made use of a Nicaraguan passport to travel from France to Israel since American citizens were at that time enjoined from travelling to the Mid-East. ERWIG-1 was shown this passport by then - French Ambassador to Nicaragua, Raymond PONS. ERWIG-1 told the American Military Attaché about this unauthorized travel. The MA told the American Ambassador who, in turn, told Davidson that ERWIG-1 had squealed on him. Relations between ERWIG-1 and Davidson were strained after that. This took place about 1956.
